FINANCE TRANSFORMATION

A fundamental change in how the finance function operates to achieve a significant improvement in current performance by delivering services that better meet the needs of the business

Lead Principal: Neil Duncan

FINANCE TRANSFORMATION OVERVIEW

Digital technologies have the potential to dramatically improve the finance function

The finance function – and CFO – must evolve and transform to be the Finance Strategic Business Partner to the wider business enterprise. A changing business climate requires an adaptive finance function. B2E Consulting has a wealth of finance transformation expertise gained over many years working with Blue Chip companies on large and complex finance transformation programmes. Our consultants have experience in strategy, design, development and implementation across all functional areas of finance, including Order to Cash (OTC), Procure to Pay (PTP), Record to Report (R2R) and Financial Planning & Assurance (FP&A).

FINANCE STRATEGIC BUSINESS PARTNER

From reporting the past to predicting the future...

TYPICAL CHALLENGES

Understanding the digital investment needed across the finance organisation does not guarantee digital success and positive return on investment (ROI). Before investing in digital technologies within finance, companies, particularly those that are large and decentralised, should address any organisational and process roadblocks that might limit the impact of digital transformation. An inefficient cash collections process for example that is automated through Robotics Process Automation (RPA) will create many challenges and risks to delivery operations.

Having well-defined lean finance processes and a finance organisation that has a good understanding of digital technologies is a critical component of digital finance transformation design and implementation.

UNIQUE SOLUTIONS

B2E Consulting places strong emphasis on lean process design helping companies to evaluate and implement industry-leading practices within the core finance operation before embarking on digital transformation.

Any enhancements to the core finance functions are fully documented with estimated costs, timescales, risks & mitigation and built into the project plan.

The next phase is to continue collaborating with the finance organisation subject matter experts on co-designing the digital finance solution opportunities. Once the digital solutions have been agreed we can help the finance organisation prioritise the various digital solutions based on a proven prioritisation methodology.

In developing the digital roadmap and detailed project plan we place a strong focus on protecting the core business and de-risking the digital programme. Throughout the implementation phase status is tracked and reported through the agreed governance process.
